

OxBlue Corporation Earns 2016 Constructech 50 Ranking Among “Most Influential” in construction technology

ATLANTA, August 16, 2016 – Citing OxBlue Corporation's vision and continuous innovation in construction camera services, Constructech magazine named OxBlue to its 2016 Constructech 50 listing of “most influential companies whose technologies serve the construction industry.”

“Celebrating 15 years, OxBlue is building its product line, brand and customer base — and has built a new headquarters to foster employee collaboration,” said Peggy Smedly, Editorial Director of Constructech magazine. “The company is preparing for the future by developing the next generation of construction technology.”

Since its founding, OxBlue “has continued to develop its software, hardware and technical services,” remarked Laura Black, Editor, Constructech magazine, noting, for example, OxBlue's:

- 2015 launch of a new 24-megapixel construction camera
- Improved interface capabilities
- New live video on demand services
- Quality customer support

“The company is preparing for the future by developing the next generation of construction technology.”
